Foreword

At the start of The Substation, there was a small enclave next to it called 'The Garden'. There was music. There was art all over the walls. And of course, there was the Braised Beef Bowl. It was a casual hangout space.

When we moved into 54-58 Waterloo Street in July 2016, we found ourselves with another small space in the corner of our turquoise building. After careful considerations, we decided to take over this space. However, very much like what 'The Garden' was, we knew that Tuckshop has to exist beyond just being a F&B space. In 2017, we then incorporated programs specially curated for Practice Tuckshop into our existing repertoire. We also introduced drinks, food and books, thanks to the support of our wonderful sponsors and friends. Our goal is for Practice Tuckshop to be financially sustainable, so that more resources can be directed towards developing projects that are accessible to all.

Hence, Practice Tuckshop is an expression of our belief that The Theatre Practice (TTP)'s most valuable assets are its people and the relationships it has fostered over the years. In short, Practice Tuckshop is a community space. We constantly ask ourselves: What does it mean to be part of a 'community'? What does it mean to be a 'space'? We are still trying, testing and experimenting with ways to make this vision come to life. When I think of community, I think about my childhood and the image that often comes to mind is my mom passing my 1-year-old self over the wall to our neighbours, whenever she needed help with baby-sitting.

Since Practice Tuckshop is fairly unusual in terms of its scope, we have put together this report to give a sense of the breadth of our efforts, and whether they have been successful (or unsuccessful?). Hopefully, this will encourage many more collaborators to join us in the upcoming years, as we continue to sustain our efforts in building this community space together.

Thank you!

About Practice Tuckshop

A creative initiative by The Theatre Practice (TTP)

Located at the heart of the Waterloo Street Arts Belt, Practice Tuckshop is a collaborative creative playground for all. It is also a community space for friends, families and creatives to gather over a cup of tea, cosy up with a selection of books by celebrated playwrights about Singapore arts, or just drop by to lepak. It is also an opportunity to participate in our quarterly selection of programs at little or no cost. We really mean it when we say: All are welcome!

Delve deeper into the history of TTP and the Singapore theatre scene by picking up one of the many books and show programs displayed at the cafe. These include a library of writings by late theatre doyen and TTP co-founder Kuo Pao Kun along with works from other theatre artists.

The Vision

Practice Tuckshop aims to be a creative playground, bringing various communities and artists together in less formalized contexts. We hope to blur the distinction between art and life and engage visitors with our diverse series of programs that marry food and drinks with stories presented in a myriad of forms.

‘The art space is where dreams and ideals are sourced, where anything and everything from past, present and future can be permuted into any combinations without bringing any harm to anyone.’

— Kuo Pao Kun, founder of The Theatre Practice

“Overall, Kitchen Series – #AHMA feels like a warm, familial dinner party where people come together and open up about their experiences and food heritage. With the benefit of being in an area that’s been steadily growing as a mini arts hub, TTP leads the way in pioneering new accessible forms of theatre, and we look forward to seeing just what they cook up next.”

Kitchen 实指大动 Series

#AhMa

(20-21 May 2017)

Embark on a journey with TTP Artistic Director Kuo Jian Hong to unearth the untold stories of our heritage through recipes.

Supported by the National Heritage Board, #Kitchen Series-#AHMA is the inaugural instalment of Practice Tuckshop’s Kitchen Series, an immersive theatrical experience that seeks to unearth the untold stories of our heritage through the medium of intimate live cooking and sharing sessions.

Hosted and moderated by Kuo Jian Hong and Ang Xiao Ting, the session featured four dishes taken from her recipe collection. They prepared a menu comprising of shredded Chicken Vermicelli (鸡丝粉皮), Chinese Dumplings (饺子), Zha Jiang Mian (炸酱面) and Flour Tea (面茶) while Kuo wove stories about her childhood and family history, including anecdotes about her time living overseas in the United States and her father’s childhood in Hubei, China.

In each intimate session, participants were invited to step into the kitchen with Kuo. They were also encouraged to share their personal recipes and anecdotes in turn.

(13 January – 11 February 2018,
24 March – 6 May 2018)

Tucked away in Singapore's downtown district, Waterloo Street is where traditional charm meets modern drive, where decades of human stories lie untold and forgotten. With Waterloo Street Crawl, Practice Tuckshop invites you to wander off the beaten path and unearth the hidden secrets of Waterloo's eclectic inhabitants.

Supported by the National Arts Council Placemaking Grant, Waterloo Street Crawl (WSC) is an exciting walking trail along unexpected locations on Waterloo Street. From the Buddhist temple, to the art gallery, to the shopping malls and hawker centres, stories are scattered and hidden in plain sight across the entire street.

Armed with the free WSC app, participants are asked to wander off the beaten track through one of Singapore's oldest streets and search for these stories, which have been taken from a diverse group of Singaporeans, each with a special connection to the street. Participants then take a photo inspired by the stories and their surroundings and finish the crawl at Practice Tuckshop, where they are invited to print their photos and contribute to an interactive art installation called The Waterloo Street Mural.

Power of “实堂” Practice Tuckshop

As we end our first year of operations, we take a look back at our adventures through the last four quarters. Practice Tuckshop is more than a physical space; it is a community; it is a resource. By supporting us, you are supporting our five powers.

A Platform and A Testing Ground

Practice Tuckshop is committed to providing a platform for experimentation of all forms, be it theatre, art, food, drinks and beyond. We encourage our partners and collaborators to treat Tuckshop as their playground and explore the limitless possibilities the space has to offer.

Bringing People Together

Practice Tuckshop is always looking for new ways to connect with a wide range of organizations, age groups, abilities and contexts. We give a safe space to debate topics within the art world and beyond. We create projects that take a closer look at important issues. We forge common ground and build invaluable friendships with our neighbors, from vendors to other art institutions.

Accessible and High-Quality Programs

At Practice Tuckshop, we take pride in providing a diverse selection of programs, all of which maintain a high standard of artistic integrity. In 2017, our programs reached out to over a thousand audience members. Most of these programs were offered free-of-charge while the remainder were affordably priced, thus allowing a wider range of audience members to access our programs.

Re-thinking Artmaking

What is theatre without a conventional stage? What necessarily constitutes artmaking? Practice Tuckshop constantly challenges and explores the boundaries of art and creation with programs that defy conventional labels.

Return To Our Roots

Inspired by the warmth and openness of the old Substation garden, Practice Tuckshop is at its core, an opportunity to provide a community space for people to gather.

Since our opening, we have built a home that has welcomed an eclectic mix of visitors - each who interact with the space in their own unique way.
